Verrus' Pay by Cell Phone enables customers to use their credit cards to pay for parking – without using a meter. By offering the convenient option to pay by cell phone, parking lots can maximize revenue and build loyalty to their lots. Customers are able to purchase parking at any time without the need to worry about broken meters or not having enough change. Capital expenditures are reduced through the elimination of investing in meters and the costs associated with them, such as cash retrieval and maintenance. The park and pay by phone system is all centrally maintained by Verrus, making it a cost-effective technology with multiple benefits.
